BOY, WOMAN IN SUICIDE ACT FACE COURT

James Matte, Who Tried to End
Life When Arrested, Held for Grand Jury.

CHARGED WITH BREAKING

James Matte, the sixteen-year-old boy who attempted to carry out his part of a suicide pact with Mrs. Mary M. Parmelee, three years his senior, found Judge Sullivan today in the session of Municipal Criminal Court, along with his fair partner. They waited a plan to the charges of breaking and entering, and were held in $1,000 each for the Grand Jury.

His face white with loss of blood and emotion, he was very nervous. Matte stood before the court, his eyes were swathed with bandages, but aside from that there was no indication of the desperate purpose which last evening had served him to try for his life.

Mrs. Parmelee, old and very benevolent and neatly, was entirely at her ease as she stood in court to hear the charge read against her and Matte. There was no scene and the whole formality was over in a moment.

Slashes Wrist on Car.
To avoid trial, Matte last night slashed his wrist with a razor on the top of a passenger on a Washington street car, near Dover street, on the way to the East End.

Second, plain, old, fancy and silk-like, for men and women.
The car was fairly well rounded at the front, the officers saw him as he stepped out. Matte did not have a clear view of both persons. Suddenly there was a powerful blow on the head of the driver. Matte drew the razor and sank it deeply in the driver's head.

Matte's act caused great excitement among the passengers on the car, among whom were many women. Several of these screamed as he cut his wrist, and some were fainting.

Patrolmen to Rescue.
Patrolmen Dawson and Irwin jumped upon Matte, who they declare intended to jump the razor to the driver's head.

Matte was also on the car and the two were in charge of two patrolmen. "I never do this for this," said Matte to Mrs. Parmelee, who was with him. "I will not do it again."

Matte was taken to the City Hospital, where he was treated for his wound. The car was taken to the City Hospital, where it was treated for its wound.

Matte and Mrs. Parmelee were arrested last night by Detective Irwin. They were taken to the City Hospital, where they were treated for their wounds.

BY J. C. KERRISON. There is so much to hear and so much to see at the big motor show in Mechanics Building that one is fairly bewildered during the early portion of a visit there. Motor vehicles in all their splendor and refinement, and decorations par excellence, form such a combination as to fairly take one's breath away. Then again there is the crowd, always interesting, always interested, a crowd the character of which is seen only at such an exhibition as that of motor vehicles.

The prevailing and running of a motor vehicle is a matter of elementary education in mechanics, and it is perhaps this very fact which has made the crowd at a motor show differ so much in character from a crowd at other exhibitions. With but two days remaining of this exhibit, the prospective purchaser seems to be anxious to make up his mind as to just what he wants for the coming season. This fact unfortunately having had a great tendency to increase the number of sales during the morning hours.

Many "best" placards. It is noticeable that the great bulk of the business of the show, as far as transactions this morning, "best" placards are concerned, is in the hands of the "best" placards. The Whittemore Company, which is the largest dealer in the city, has a large number of "best" placards, and the other dealers are also showing a large number of "best" placards.

HAS MADE IMPORTANT MEDICAL DISCOVERY

OF SPECIAL VALUE TO MANY HERE IN BOSTON.

The progress made in medicine during the last few years has been a whole general rather than specific. One of the most notable discoveries and one that undoubtedly appeals more than anything else to many people here in Boston is the combination of stomach remedies in the Mica-na treatment. This prescription has worked wonders, and there is now no excuse for anyone suffering with indigestion or weak stomach, since nature has given us the means for our cure.

It nets specifically upon the muscles of the stomach and bowels, stimulates and stimulates them, so that they readily take care of the food that is eaten. It also increases the flow of gastric juices, thus getting from the food the nourishment that is necessary for health and energy.

The symptoms of indigestion are numerous, such as distress after eating, flatulence, heartburn, sick headaches, dizziness and irritability. These are all alleviated by a few doses of Mica-na when the trouble is recent, but just as surely in long-standing and chronic cases if the treatment is followed for a reasonable length of time.

Do not think because of the quick benefits derived from the use of Mica-na that it is merely a temporary remedy. It is a remedy that cures by making over the weak stomach into a strong one.

Mica-na is sold by druggists everywhere for 50 cents, and we positively guarantee to refund your money should you purchase a box and be dissatisfied with results. Write for free sample, addressing South Boston, Box 107, Boston, N. Y.

ME and MY People

Innocent Egotism, Perhaps, Yet IT
HAS A Meaning
Copyright, 1908, by American Journal-Examiner

Mr. Roosevelt, in a message signed by his name thanking foreigners for kindness to the American fleet, speaking of himself and the people of America, WHO HIRE HIM AS THEIR EMPLOYE AND SERVANT, used the expression, "me and my people."

Of course, the President was not thinking very closely when he wrote that sentence. For, since he possesses an education better than the average, he must realize how preposterous it is for one individual of moderate ability to speak of the eighty millions that make up this country as "my people."

When the Czar of Russia speaks of "my people" that is a natural feature of Russian life, and so it is when the Sultan of Turkey or the old Empress of China talks about "my people."

The German Emperor talks about "my army." But even he would hardly say "my people." It would seem rather foolish and presumptuous in him to use that expression.

When Mr. Roosevelt says "me and my people" in a public document, or when in private he speaks of "my fleet"—he DOES speak of it in that way—it is important for the people of the country to ask themselves whether there is anything more than thoughtless exhibition of boyish enthusiasm and egotism involved.

Some newspapers have affected to be very much shocked by the "me and my people" incident. It has shocked especially the newspapers owned by the trusts that have recently taken to hating Mr. Roosevelt, the very newspapers that in their hearts would not object at all if they heard a Rockefeller or a Morgan talk about "my people."

But even for an ordinary citizen, with a naturally friendly feeling toward Mr. Roosevelt and a disposition to interpret kindly his boyish ebulliences, the "me and my people" phrase should not be dismissed altogether lightly.

We give our President very great power, a power far greater than that of the King of England, the Emperor of Germany, or any ruler in a constitutional monarchy.

The people of this country, if they want to continue a government republican in form at least, ought to be very sensitive as to the effect that power has on the human mind.

The people of America especially should study the "me and my people" expression, bearing in mind the American tradition about the third term.

Perhaps the old Rule of Three might apply in this case.

If a man President for one term, by accident, President is second by election, happens to talk about "me and my people," how would he be apt to talk if elected to a third term, and thus publicly indorsed as the superior of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and others of whom it may with reason be said that the nation is THEIR PEOPLE because they made the people a nation or kept it a nation?

Mr. Roosevelt says "me and my people," an expression foreign to the official utterances of Washington and Lincoln. If the people now should take it into their heads to give him what they did not give Washington, what they would not have given to Lincoln, what they refused to Grant, in spite of his great services, A THIRD TERM, would not Mr. Roosevelt be justified in the thought that the people accept the "me and my people" doctrine, that they are tired even of the form of republican government, and are ready for something beneficent, paternal, under the rule of Theodore First, with "me and my people" transformed into a national, historical reality from a mere boyish outburst of thoughtless vanity?

The BOSTON AMERICAN's opinion is that the "me and my people" incident will be stored away in the Comic Section of history along with Dear Maria and the Harriman Letter and the other humorous features of an interesting and some ways valuable and in all ways exciting built-the-china-shop administration.

HOWEVER, GREAT CHANGES IN HISTORY START FROM LITTLE THINGS. If this country should have a third term, and if it should drift in the old way—the way of Rome or France—from republicanism to imperialism, you could be quite sure that historians will write up that simple little "me and my people" phrase in very big letters, and wonder how it was possible for eighty millions of intelligent human beings to overlook the meaning in that phrase, and continue at the head of a republic, in violation of an absolutely essential third-term principle, a gentleman who over his signature had proved that, for the moment at least, the republican idea had abandoned him.

Bobbie's Essays

By William F. Kirk

THIS is a essay about Spring which is almost here. Pa said he was late seeing quite early, and Ma and Well, well, of all things, look where here. How did you manage it, dear, and Ma. I am overwhelmed, she said.

I am hoam a little early, and Pa, but embow the fever of glorious Spring got to my veins and leaped madly thru my arteries, also Pa.

Why, well, and Pa, you realize that almost before we know it the hillside will be pink with trailing arbutus and green with the leaves of the wintergreen, and Pa.

I was thinking about it at the office to-day, he told Ma, who I was watching the dreary rain falling on the pavement of this grate and gloomy city, and I was a great comfort to me to think that somewhere in the country hills there was gliding ready to get on the 5th and sent out thru the ground the faintest and green, which, and Pa, will develop from tiny buds into Nature's most noble and glorious colors.

Was you thinking of that, and Ma. Indeed I was, and Pa, and also I was thinking of the beautiful day of Summer which will be here soon after Spring, the beautiful month of June, July, and August, each bringing its blue sky and green grass and yellow rent hills, its joys and sorrows, its comings and goings, and Pa.

After all, and Pa, this is a sweet world in which we live, and never a day passes that I do not realize it, and strive for to be a better man and develop a better hot-lator. O lovely Spring, Pa.

I welcome thee.

I will need three (3) new suits, and Ma, and at least two (2) hats, and a couple of lawnjerry dresses, of course I have two from last summer, she said, which will do very nice when we go to visit the folks we know at Deddus, but I need sum new ones & the suits & hats, so I, too, am glad that Spring is almost here.

For heavens sake, and Pa, you don't mean to tell me you need any more of them lawnjerry dresses, the ones you have is as good as new, fully as good as now. In fact, and Pa, I remember the last time you wore that pink one (1) at the seashore, in that dress, Pa, and, you looked like Helen of Troy, or a Greek goddess just out loots, he said, Tidd, and Ma.

Indeed you did, Pa, and to her. Why, darling, when I looked into yore starry eyes & red the love-lights which was in them, I saw yore beautiful form & yore dimpled mouth. Pa, and my heart was happy with a great & wonderful joy which bubbled over like water bubbling from a spring in sun-seeked-questured glade. You don't need any new dresses, and Pa.

Dear husband, and Ma, you don't know how happy you make me feel when you talk like that. You are as much my hero as in the golden days of our courtship, when I trembled with a wild joy every time I saw you coming up the path which led to the lovely home of my parents.

What beautiful hats then two (2) who ones of yore in and Pa, indeed everybody look at you when you was in the Hammetts' last fall, Summer?

The band was playing "The general breeze of Summer was lifting the curls on yore fair brow, and Pa. I looked out at the million lites of this grand city, and to myself it seemed a splendid site, but the most splendid site was you in that picture hat which is all over roses & ribbons.

You looked divine in that two wide hats, & I was lost thinking the other day how happy I would be when the Summer curls stream & you was here.

I never liked the little one which looked like a clump of cactus on the desert, Pa, told Ma, and I think I can manage it so I can get you one (1) new hat.

Then Ma kissed Pa, and went out to get him new hats & Pa, and to me, I suppose, when you grow up & am married, remember the line of talk yore father handed out the site, "Talk is cheap, and Pa, but it talks munny to buy lawnjerry dresses, etc. In the words of the poet—

Little lumps of money,
Make one's dress quite happy
With the clothes they almost have.

The Woman Who Is Cultured Will Never Wantonly
Pain One Who Is Trying to Give Her Pleasure
By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1908, by American Journal-Examiner

A cultured woman visiting Honolulu endeavored to impress all the kindly disposed people who tried to entertain her with the fact that life in the new colony bore her advantage, and that she had seen more unique and interesting phases elsewhere.

She possessed social position and wealth; she was supposed to be a "typical American lady" of quality; yet she showed herself lacking in that most necessary quality of a "real lady"—culture.

The cultured woman never appeared bored, because she knows the greatest vulgarity is that of giving pain wantonly to those who are trying to bestow pleasure.

She possessed social position and wealth; she was supposed to be a "typical American lady" of quality; yet she showed herself lacking in that most necessary quality of a "real lady"—culture.

The cultured woman never appeared bored, because she knows the greatest vulgarity is that of giving pain wantonly to those who are trying to bestow pleasure.

Money Can't Do It

No amount of wealth, no amount of education, no amount of travel, no high social position, can make a "lady" or a "virtuous woman" unless the culture which comes from a kindly heart and consideration of the feelings of others is added.

An American young woman from the States offered the society which sought to entertain her by smoking in public and in the dining rooms of her hotel.

She assured them that "all smart women" in the States smoked, and that it was an evidence of primitive conditions where women objected to the habit.

This young woman was aware that the entertainers were descendants of the old missionary families who came to the Sandwich Islands seventy years ago.

She was aware that their traditions, tastes and opinions would all be opposed to the fashionable accomplishment she boasted.

Deliberate Offense

Yet, with laboring vulgarity and cultivated egotism and selfishness, she deliberately offended these sweet and hospitable women.
